Said To Have Gone Into Action Along With American Aircraft Carrier Task Forces, Warships and Land-Based Planes — Tokyo Broadcast Says "Powerful Enemy Troops Are Raiding the Marshalls."

By J. Lynn Leonard
L. N. S. Foreign Writer

The Japanese implied today that United States troops have gone into action along with American aircraft carrier task forces, warships and land-based planes conducting offensive operations against Nippon's Marshall Island strongholds. The suggestion that Yank forces are engaged in commando-type assaults against military installations, similar to the sortie against Makin prior to full-scale invasion of the Gilberts, was made in a broadcast from Tokyo.

"Powerful enemy troops are raiding the Marshalls," said the Tokyo announcement picked up by NBC.

There was no substantiation in official announcements from headquarters of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz at Pearl Harbor of the enemy hint that landing operations may be in progress but because of the proportions of the American aerial and naval assault the possibility was not ruled out.

The commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet who is directing the Marshalls operations issued only the barest announcement of continued aerial raids on the Jap-held islands atolls. The brevity of the communications was understandable since ships in the area must maintain radio silence as a security measure.

An indirect admission that the American task forces are doing their job well was made by Tokyo in a domestic broadcast which said that the attacking units are "superior" to the Nipponese forces in the area.

"A superior enemy force has been raiding the Marshall Islands group," said this broadcast recorded by the U. S. foreign broadcast intelligence service.

The Japs maintained that fierce

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Washington, Jan. 29. ABOUT the only things that have not been settled now about the coming Democratic convention are (1) who will be Mr. Roosevelt's running mate and (2) how formidable will be the protest vote against his fourth term. There, of course, remain details, such as who will make the nominating and keynote speeches and what will be in the platform.

BUT THESE, including the platform, are relatively trivial. Mr. Roosevelt is always his own platform. Early in his first term he gave convincing evidence of how lightly he holds the written party pledges and his own pre-election utterances. So that it is the literal truth to say that now the only major matters still uncertain are

THOUSANDS HAVE DIED AND THOUSANDS MORE ARE DYING AS RESULT OF STARVATION. LACK OF MEDICINES AND "JAP" BRUTALITY

Colonel Carlos P. Romulo who writes this series of six articles for the INS, was the last man off Bataan before its surrender. Aide-de-camp to General Douglas MacArthur in Bataan, Corregidor, and Australia, of him, the General wrote: "Romulo fought for the American flag in Bataan with unsurpassed courage and devotion." He was decorated with the Distinguished Service Star, the Silver Star, two Oak Leaf Clusters, and the Purple Heart. He is the author of the current national best sellers, "I Saw the Fall of the Philippines," and "Mother America." In 1941 he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for interpretative correspondence. He is at present Minister of Information and Public Relations in the war cabinet of the Commonwealth Government of the Philippines, Washington, D. C.

(Written Exclusively for International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (INS) — "The March of Death" of Colonel Dyess and the 12,000 Filipino and American soldiers after the fall of Bataan continues. It continues for the Filipino people, seventeen million of them.

Because Filipino resistance is unabated, because the Filipino refuses to crook his knee to the Japanese invader, the Filipinos today are the victims of indescribable atrocities, thousands have died and thousands more are dying as a result of starvation, lack of medicines, and Japanese brutality.

There are two men who with their mind's eye are looking at that grim march of death of a brave, loyal people. One is in the front lines somewhere in the Southwest Pacific; the other is in his sick-bed in Miami Beach, Florida—General Douglas MacArthur and President Manuel L. Quezon, of the Philippines. These were the two leaders who since 1934 saw the shape of things to come and vainly sought the assistance they needed to prevent the gruesome march of death. Both of them refused to leave the Philippines and they left only because of the assurance that they could get the relief that the men in Bataan and Corregidor had

OCEAN DIDN'T COVER BUCKS COUNTY AREA

Geologist So Informs Perkasie Rotary Club Members

TRAP ROCK SURFACE

PERKASIE, Feb. 1.—Bucks county was not covered by the ocean at one time, according to Richard T. Meyers, professor of geology at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, as he spoke at his favorite subject, Thursday, at a joint meeting of the Perkasie Rotary Club and Sellersville Kiwanis Club in the Union Hotel, here.

Contrary to some theories advanced by local observers, concerning sand deposits in lower Bucks county, Mr. Meyers claims that continental shale is all that can be found throughout most of the county. This, he said, was shoved out in this direction from the Appalachian area many years ago while the earth was in a state of flux. Huge pressure areas were formed by the buckling of the earth's surface.

Trap rock, as it is called by geologists, forms the surface of the earth through much of Bucks county, said Mr. Meyers. This is an exceptionally hard "fire rock" that was shoved up with volcanic fury many years ago. Along the Ridge road, from Sunnyside east and north to the Delaware river, this rock is exposed in huge rounded boulders. The mountains on the earth's surface were formed because silt and debris pressing on weak pieces of the earth's crust sometimes would cause it to break, or volcanic action from within would shove material upwards.

The Rev. Norman Y. Ritter inducted Bert McClelland and Ralph Keller as new members of Rotary. T. Wells Knipe, who presided, turned over the meeting temporarily to William E. Steeley, president of Sellersville Kiwanis Club. Guests included Corporal Herbert Magaral, of the Army, Robert Bart, Buffalo, N. Y., and Donald Brobst and Edward Brown, Allentown.

JOSEPH ELBERSON NAMED AS SECRETARY

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 1. — Organized county sportsmen met here last evening for the first meeting of 1944 of the Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs of Bucks County.

Delegates of 14 local organizations were on hand to elect new officers for the current year and transact other Federation business.

Veteran sportsman Charles Rowe of Doylestown was succeeded as president by Allan L. Wolf, Morrisville. Rowe has been at the helm of the Federation since its inception more than a decade ago.

Allan L. Grant, Quakertown, was named vice-chairman and Abe Mitman, Sellersville, was elected treasurer. E. T. Balderston, Morrisville, secretary of the county organization, was succeeded by Joseph Elberson, Bristol.

Roy Stackhouse and Edward Balderston were named delegates to the State Federation meeting in Harrisburg on February 12th.

The question of the damage to game being done by fox in the county was discussed at some length. The Federation again went on record as favoring and endorsing a bounty on the red fox. The Commonwealth now pays a bounty on the grays.

Fish Warden Harry Coles spoke briefly on the stocking program of the Fish Commission.

A report from Earl Carpenter and George Frens, Game Commission wardens, indicated that 902 cock pheasants were released in the county last week.

Delegates were informed that the only rabbits to be released this year will be those taken in the Commission's trapping program. No stock will be purchased or imported from outside the Commonwealth.

The next meeting of the county Federation was set for March 6 in Doylestown. Reports of the delegates to the State Federation meeting will be heard at this meeting.

Stockholm.—A frank admission that Germany's U-boat warfare during 1943 was "disappointing" to the Reich was made today by Admiral Luetzow, one of that nation's leading naval commentators, in a lecture at Helsinki. Dispatches from the Finnish capital quoted Luetzow as admitting that the Allies had developed highly efficient weapons for both hunting and combating German submarines. He asserted, however, that counter-measures have been worked out which "will show their effectiveness in the future."

Hill, married and the father of two children, but separated from his family, is now being detained at Fort Dix. His statements given to the authorities are said to be confusing but the belief is that Hill is the man for whom the police have been conducting a nationwide search.

280 MEN EXAMINED FOR SERVICE TODAY

Classifications May Change, Or Names Be Placed In "Pool"

NOT INDUCTED TODAY

Approximately 280 men from the area covered by Selective Service Board No. 1 left Bristol this morning for physical examinations in Philadelphia. This group is not being inducted today as has previously been the case when physical examinations are passed.

Their names will, in the event they pass said physical examination and they remain in Classification 1A, be placed in the recently established "pool" from which selectees can be drawn by the government agencies.

A spokesman for the board said this morning: "It appears that the government wants the men who are not in essential activities to get into such, as this necessity has been stressed for the past year. There is a possibility that many will have their classifications changed due to defense employment or other essential activities."

Some Mill street merchants took the examination today, as well as some prominent business men. Among them are: Clarence H. Young, of the Wm. H. Grundy Co., and secretary of Bristol Township school board; George Wetherill, gasoline station proprietor; J. S. Lynn, Leon Plavin, Raymond Zimet, Bernard Ballow, Mill street merchants; Harold H. Haefner, funeral director; Axel Kleinsorg, of Bensalem school faculty; Charles Boyd, of Bristol high school faculty; John Johnson, an employee of Farmers National Bank, and also treasurer of Bristol School District; also three sets of brothers, William, John and Joseph Keller; James and Frank Mayberry; John and Charles Torpy.

A great number of those called for "physicals" are fathers of children, born prior to Pearl Harbor day.

Although the Local Selective Service Board has no idea when the men of this group will be called, the board is of the opinion some classifications will be changed.

A high wind and low temperatures greeted the men and those who were out to see them off. The Bristol high school band played patriotic selections; and members of "36 for Victory" distributed gifts to the men. The American Legion, Robert W. Bracken Post, was also represented.

THE FCC AND LIBERTY

The Federal Communications Commission has again put its hand to law writing. Its latest edict is that while it will not deny radio station ownership to newspapers—how generous of it!—it will make sure that there is "diversification of ownership."

It has served notice that when only one wave band is available in a particular city, and two applicants "equally well qualified," one newspaper and one non-newspaper, seek the frequency, the FCC will, in the public interest, be inclined to favor the non-newspaper applicant. Of course, newspapers have been suspect by the New Deal from the beginning. All the little New Dealers caught the idea as soon as The Chief started feuding with the press he could neither cow nor control.

The FCC piously maintains that it has reached this decision after long investigation of newspaper-radio ownership. But, as far as available records show, it has published no report to support its conclusion, nor has it ever submitted the question to public hearings.

The business of the FCC is to police radio in the interest of traffic orderliness. When it steps beyond this function to rule on the content of broadcasts or to deny or favor one kind of ownership, it is betraying a kinship with the tyrants of today and yesterday whom the ownership of a printing press conditional on their approval of what was printed upon it.

A HAIR'S BREADTH

Premier Tojo's statement before the Japanese parliament that "there is only a hair's breadth between final victory and defeat," should shake Japanese morale. No American in high position could say that about the United States.

Tojo's explanation of what he meant was that Great Britain and the United States would wear themselves out before they could get into position to knock out Japan. The Tokyo war lord counts upon weariness of his country's opponents. He also speaks of "unrest" and "exhaustion."

There may be some unrest, but exhaustion has not lifted its head in either the United States or Great Britain.

Tojo doesn't understand Americans or else he is fooling his own people when he counts on this country becoming tired of the war and letting down because of unrest or exhaustion. Anyone who dared suggest a negotiated peace with Japan before that nation is brought to its knees would be booted out of the American picture.

The United States is doing an excellent job whittling down Japanese shipping, shipping which is urgently needed by the Nipponese to supply their scattered empire. Tojo's admission that the whittling has hurt may explain his statement about a hair's breadth difference between victory and defeat.

KNOW YOUR STATE

In a State as large and important as Pennsylvania many impressive and significant events take place each year and it is interesting to review some of them at the year's end. While there probably have been other years equally important in the State's history, 1943 will long be remembered because of the critical period through which the world is passing.

The year was marked by the inauguration of a new governor, Major General Edward Martin, who succeeded Arthur H. James, on January 19th. The inaugural ceremonies were scheduled to take place in Harrisburg on the steps leading to the plaza in front of the main capitol building but because of inclement weather, they were moved to the Forum in the Education Building.

The 125th regular session of the General Assembly convened January 5th and adjourned May 8th. It was the first time since the war of 1812 that the State's General Assembly began its regular session while the nation was at war with a foreign power. In the session of 1943, a total of 1,747 bills were introduced, 635 by the Senate and 1,112 by the House. A total of 509 bills were passed and of these, 469 were approved by the Governor.

Pennsylvania's industries kept turning out a record production of manufactured articles throughout the year. In addition to the large volume of major war supply contracts which were awarded prior to 1943, several billion dollars worth of war contracts were assigned to Pennsylvania manufacturers during the first nine months of the year. If the awards continue at the same rate during the last three months of the year, the total amount of these contracts assigned to Pennsylvania since June 1940 will amount to well over ten billions of dollars. While Pennsylvania is proud of her contribution to the winning of the war, she is ever looking forward to the time when her great industrial might can be turned to the making of peace-time goods.

cessor in State and district elections since 1942—a revolt which seems to insure a Republican House and even threatens Democratic Senate control.

ALL THIS tends to make the normal, sturdy, conservative Mr. Rayburn seem a better Vice-Presidential possibility than the idealistic, star-gazing Mr. Wallace, who, despite the President's known wish to drop the New Deal name and subordinate New Dealism in the coming campaign, still exalts it to the skies and holds out the hope—or threat—of a greater New Deal for the future. There is also the fact that Mr. Wallace has somewhat overplayed himself and been greatly overpraised by the radical press. Some of his most fervent speeches have fallen flat and a few of his most scorching attacks have reacted against him.

AS TO the Roosevelt running mate, it seems a contest now between Speaker Rayburn and Vice-President Wallace. At least, it is called a contest, though actually, it isn't one, the fact being that the one depends entirely upon which Mr. Roosevelt prefers. If the President should become genuinely neutral, unquestionably Mr. Rayburn would win. For one thing, he is far more popular with party leaders than Mr. Wallace. For another, they regard him as a more balanced

Eternal Father, look down upon us in all Thy mercy, and give unto us that which we need for successful living. ### ON THE SCREENS

BRISTOL THEATRE
Whenever Ben Ames Williams writes a story, it is invariably full of warm human interest, sentimentality and down-to-earth reality.

Such a story is "Someone to Remember," which will open today at the Bristol Theatre for a two-day showing.

Although most of Deanna Durbin's pictures have been in a light comedy vein, the star's current film, "His Butler's Sister," at the Grand Theatre, is her first true farce.

The best tip-off of exactly what to expect from this production is the foreword which has been written for it. "The foods, drinks, clothes, shoes, rubber, gas and other articles consumed or used in this picture are purely imaginary and have no relation to any actual foods, drinks, clothes, shoes, rubber, gas and other articles of today, rationed or unrationed. Any resemblance is purely accidental. This is a table of the day before yesterday."

RITZ THEATRE

Jane Wyatt can drive a 42-mile team and drive it skillfully, without the aid of stunt men, doubles or any movie tricks. Miss Wyatt's ability to handle the reins with ease was brought to light recently during the filming of the new railroad romance, co-starring Richard Dix and Miss Wyatt, "Buckskin Frontier," which is the current attraction at the Ritz Theatre.

The Money is To Be Given To Two Different Organizations

It was announced last night that the sum of $400 was realized from the benefit basketball game played last Sunday for the 1944 Infantile Paralysis fund. The only expense to be deducted from this amount is the 10% federal amusement tax on paid admissions. The Rohm and Haas Social Club will pay all other expense incurred.

One-half of the remaining proceeds will be given to the Metropolitan Philadelphia Society for Crippled Children which organization sends an orthopedic therapist to give the Sister Kenny treatment to those stricken with infantile paralysis in this area.

This society has already sent therapists to Bristol, Langhorne, Croydon, and other parts of Bucks County for those stricken and several of them have been able to walk again and bring into play other muscles of their bodies which were affected.

The other half will be given to the national fund which aids in isolated ward cases and also aids the nation in the fight against the disease.

Those who saw the game were thrilled from start to finish as the Rohm and Haas team topped the Fleetwings' aggregation, 45-43, with Pat Carnevale sinking the winning field and Mike Bloom, star performer for Temple University in 1938, getting a total of 24 points.

Thousands Have Died, Thousands Are Dying, As Result of "Jap" Brutality

anese officers empty their pistols on three Chinese children, an old man, and an invalid woman lying in bed in the small shack near Kuning. I saw the same officers back a boy with their swords, leaving him armless and legless.

I wrote the stories of these atrocities for my newspapers. Many who read them said: "No, the Japanese cannot be that bad." Then the Philippines were invaded. They burned our homes, bombed our churches, maimed our children. We took our last stand in Bataan. There, 75,000 Filipino soldiers and 7,000 American soldiers grappled with the enemy. The Japanese soldier is not only a trained killer. He is a sadist.

Callousness to suffering is typical among the Japanese soldiery. I saw the corpses of some of our officers in Bataan, who had been captured by the Japanese during an engagement, thrown into creeks, their hands tied, and bayoneted from behind. I saw these and many more—and I will relate them in succeeding articles. I know what the Japanese is capable of doing.

When I arrived in the United States, Americans talked to me and asked me—unbelievingly—about "so-called Japanese atrocities." The average American thinks they are part of our propaganda and are dishonored merely to stir American public opinion against the enemy.

Since my arrival in this country, I have been working for the release of the stories about Japanese atrocities committed in Bataan and Corregidor.

When Col. Dyess escaped from the Philippines I went to see him. We were together in Bataan. He was one of the bravest among the brave.

I will never forget when he told me when I saw him in a hospital in this country.

"We must tell the American people the truth. It's our duty. You owe it to your people," he told me. "Those loyal Filipinos who are so heroically resisting in the Philippines with practically nothing except sheer courage and faith in America."

To those who say "no, the Japanese cannot be that bad," I say for Col. Dyess and thousands of our buddies who can no longer speak—no, indeed, the Japanese are not that bad—they are worse!

For the march of death continues in the Philippines today.

(The next installment will describe Japanese activities in the Philippines today.)

Pa. State Police Found 1st Clue in Murder Mystery

day afternoon announced the name of the colored soldier, a private in the U. S. Army, who they have been questioning since Wednesday.

Hill, believe police, is also implicated in the shooting of Howard Wilson, Bristol Township, November 2, 1940, on Tyburn Road, Falls Township; shooting John Testa, Franklin street, Bristol, March 7, 1942, on Bordentown Road; and beating Miss Antoinette Marcantonio, 27 Brook street, Bristol, at the time that Testa was shot.

Both Wilson and Testa were shot in the left arm and Testa, who was on furlough at the time from Fort Dix, had his arm amputated the following day in the Fort Dix hospital.

At the time of the shooting Wilson was seated in a parked car with a woman companion. Testa and Miss Marcantonio were also in a parked car on the Bordentown Road.

Hill's arrest was brought about by the finding of a portion of a gun by Penna. State Police, South Langhorne barracks, at the scene of the Testa shooting, the day following the shooting. At that time details of Penna. State Police were brought here to aid the South Langhorne troopers in making a thorough search of the area. It was then that the portion of the gun was found.

The clue led the police to Worcester, Mass., in search of the ownership of a 12 gauge shot gun, single barrel.

Sergeant William F. Horne, N. J. State Police, and Harry Fitzgerald, Penna. State Police detective, located a pawn ticket for a gun which they thought might be the one.

Chief Bucks County Detective Anthony Kusko assisted them in all of the investigations. The ownership of the gun was traced and it was learned that the firearm had been pawned in Trenton and the pawn ticket given away. Then a search for the man who had received the pawn ticket was made.

A very lengthy investigation was conducted and a large number of persons interviewed and questioned. This led to army camps at New York, Indiantown Gap, and finally to Charleston, S. C., and it was learned that Hill, a soldier at the camp, had redeemed the gun of a pawnbroker, before or about the time of the crimes.

The search became more confusing as the officers questioned Hill, who gave them the names of a lot of other men to whom he claimed he had given the pawn ticket, and after weeks of intensive examination of these men, Hill's story proved to be false.

When Hill was confronted with the men he had endeavored to implicate, his stories were proven false and finally he admitted his guilt, say the authorities.

Police, by the use of an electrical device, are endeavoring to locate the missing part of the gun which Hill is believed to have buried either in Pennsylvania or New Jersey.

Hill arrived at Fort Dix on Wednesday and has been questioned since then in connection with the murders and attacks.

The suspect was taken to scenes of the crimes and is said to have reenacted them for the authorities. He was brought into Bucks County and went over the ground, telling what took place, say the police.

This was done in the presence of the prosecuting attorney of Mercer County, Anthony Kusko, chief Bucks county detective, Frank Naples, chief detective of Mercer County; Sgt. Horne, N. J. State Police; Captain Wooge, N. J. State Police; Captain Thomas Simpson, Hamilton Township police, Penna. State Police Detective Fitzgerald; and Elmer Updyke, county detective of Mercer county.

The "breaking" of the case resulted from the hardest and most painstaking kind of work in which the police authorities of the two States joined and co-operated as a unit.

After being questioned at Fort Dix by the police, Hill was told that when he was ready to make a statement to inform Lt. Colonel Lewis H. Sussman, Provost Marshal of Fort Dix. It was to Sussman that Hill is said to have told his story Friday afternoon but the details were withheld.

It was the co-operation of the New Jersey State Police, the Hamilton Township police and the Penna. State Police which it is believed will solve the mystery which has been baffling the authorities for the past five years.

The State Police of South Langhorne have maintained a constant patrol of the Bucks County area in which the two shootings occurred ever since they happened, in the hope that the "killer" would return and be caught in the act.

Prosecutor Walter D. Cogle, Mercer County, said he will ask the Mercer County Grand Jury "within a few days" to return a murder indictment against Hill. He would not, however, disclose any possible motive for the crimes, saying that "that would hurt the prosecution of the case at this time."

fighting still was in progress but acknowledged that details are "not known to us at this time."

The Nazi-dominated Vichy radio, according to the Exchange Telegraph Agency, put out an assertion that U. S. shock troops had landed at undisclosed points in the Marshalls. The information came from Tokyo, the Vichy station said.

Tokyo itself said in referring to the "superior enemy force" that both Japanese "army and navy forces" garrisoned on the islands have intercepted and are now engaged in fierce fighting.

Radio Berlin circulated what it said was a Tokyo communique reporting a heavy naval engagement between Jap and American vessels was raging in the island area.

Admiral Nimitz has said nothing concerning the U. S. surface craft since his announcement that warships, believed to include battleships, heavy cruisers and destroyers, shelled installations on the more important island groups.
